

Relaxed Roman Shade

Relaxed Roman Shade

The Relaxed Roman Shade lies flat with a gentle “smile” at the bottom when lowered, and billows up in soft gathers when raised.

When ordered with a valance the shade hangs off the back of the headrail. The valance hangs off the front of the headrail and the controls are easy to access in front of the shade.

When ordered without a valance the shade hangs off the front of the headrail and the controls are hidden behind the shade.

Lining

All Horizons™ Soft Treatment shades are lined with a standard privacy lining. Lining protects the fabric from the sun and provides a neutral color to the outside. Blackout lining may be ordered for an additional charge. See pages C10-C11 for blackout lining charges.

Turned Headrail

As a standard, the headrails of all Horizons™ Shades are mounted horizontally -- 1 1/2" depth by 3/4" high.

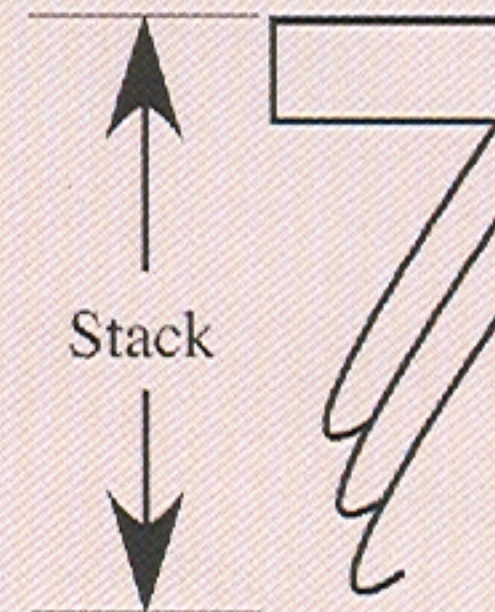

You can request a “Turned Headrail,” making the depth 3/4" and the height 1 1/2". This is most commonly done in cases of limited mounting depth. Not available on UpRight™ shades. Valance returns are available on shades with a valance.

Steaming the Shade

Like every fabric Roman shade, a brand new Horizons™ shade right out of the box will have wrinkles. Many of the wrinkles will simply hang out after a few days. However, for the best results, we recommend steaming your shade once it is installed. If a professional steamer is unavailable, a standard iron with a steam button will work just as well.

Note: Use caution when steaming fabrics made from silk.

Dressing the Shade

Part of the beauty of a Relaxed Roman Shade is the naturally soft or relaxed drape of the material. A Relaxed Roman Shade does not have the defined pleats of a Classic Roman Shade. Adjusting the material to achieve a gentle “smile” where the fabric gathers will allow you to obtain the best results.

Relaxed Roman Notes

The Relaxed Roman tends to “toe-in” at the bottom. Inside mounts, two-on-one’s and three-on-one’s are not recommended.

The “height” of a Relaxed Roman is to the short point of the “smile.”
